MANY CONFLICTING REPORTS RELATIVE TO THE PRESIDENT.

He is Irrational at Intervals—Surgeons Unite in Pronouncing his Situation Extremely Critical—Improvement in the Condition of his Stomach, Etc., Etc.

[illegible]

[illegible] At about 3 A. M. the president asked for koumiss and a small quantity was given him and retained by the stomach. The morning dressing showed a normal temperature and respiration, and the pulse was less than yesterday morning. The wound was found to be doing well and the inflamed gland in about the same condition as last night. Dr. Reyburn said at 9 A. M.: "The swelling is no worse and the general condition of the president is a little better." The anxiety is somewhat lessened by the developments of the morning bulletin. The gravity of the situation is still apparent.

11 A. M.—The president's condition has not materially changed since the morning bulletin. There has been no recurrence of vomiting, and the president has taken a small quantity of milk porridge and a little koumiss without nausea. It has been rumored that his mind has wandered at intervals, but this reported mental disturbance seems to have been nothing more than a slight incoherence of speech immediately after awakening from sleep, before his senses were fully under control. It has not occurred at any other time, and is perhaps due to extreme weakness. The swelling of the parotid gland remains about stationary. The feeling at the executive mansion this morning is one of anxiety, but the general impression seems to be there is no greater cause for alarm now than there has been for two or three days.

12:30 P. M. (unofficial bulletin).—The condition of the patient is slightly better than yesterday. There has been no nausea or vomiting since yesterday afternoon, and the stomach seems to be again resuming its functions. The president has swallowed and retained without discomfort since morning about 12 ounces of milk porridge and koumiss, and at 7 A. M. an enema of beef extract was administered. Another enema will be given about noon. There has been no change in the appearance of the parotid gland since yesterday, although there has been further slight subsidence of inflammation of the surrounding parts. The surgeons hope they have this feature of the case under control, although they cannot speak with confidence. The gland may suppurate within the next three or four days notwithstanding measures which have been taken to reduce the inflammation. In that case pus will be moderated by an incision just as soon as its existence become apparent. This will not necessarily involve great peril of the patient's strength. The danger most to be apprehended now, Dr. Bliss says, is exhaustion, and with this danger they hope to deal successfully, unless the stomach entirely breaks down. Thus far to-day indications are that that organ is improving in tone and secretion of phlegm in the throat has so far decreased that it gives the patient no special annoyance and he is relieved from the necessity of making such efforts to expel as those which brought on the vomiting yesterday afternoon.

The president has continued this morning to retain liquid nourishment taken by the mouth as well as enemata. There has been no recurrence of vomiting and nausea. The parotid swelling is not materially smaller but continues painless. It has caused an annoying accumulation of viscid mucous in the back of the mouth, but this symptom has much abated at present. Pulse 104; temperature 98.4; respiration 18.

1 o'clock—Dr. Boynton says that there is ground for hope. His condition may not be improving much, but he is not losing ground. He has taken a little koumiss and milk porridge once in two hours without nausea. Boynton does not give him up.

3 P. M.—The president's condition is more encouraging.

Unofficial bulletin: The president is passing a quiet afternoon and sleeps a good deal and up to the present time has swallowed and retained to-day 22 ounces of liquid nourishment, consisting of milk porridge and koumiss. He has also had two enemata, one at 7 A. M., and one after the noon hour. No unfavorable symptoms have appeared and his general condition is the same as at 12:30. At 3 P. M. Dr. Boynton said to a press reporter: "I think the president a little better to-day. He has taken and retained his nourishment well. He relishes his milk porridge and koumiss and asked for it this morning. I'm encouraged about the glandular trouble to-day. I think it's not quite so large and if suppuration sets in now it will be much less dangerous than earlier in its development, and possible suppuration would not do any great injury now. It's a very uncertain complication and no predictions can be made as to preventing suppuration. By to-morrow or Wednesday we should be able to determine whether suppuration is likely to occur. I think the president's stomach is performing its natural functions very well now. He has been a little delirious, at times, but it has not amounted to anything serious. It is caused by his extremely weak condition and his long illness. It would probably occur in any case where a patient had become so enfeebled. I attach no great importance to it. In all cases where enemata are administered in small quantities laudanum or something similar is one of the component parts. It is given to aid in retaining enemata, but is not sufficient to cause delirium. On the whole I feel to-day more encouraged than yesterday about the case, but the president is still in a precarious condition."

4:10 P. M.—Dr. Bliss at 4 P. M. said to a representative of the associated press that the president had had a much more favorable afternoon than yesterday and was doing fairly well. He continues to swallow nourishment in the shape of milk porridge and koumiss without difficulty, and has in the opinion of the surgeons, had food enough to sustain his strength. He suffers no further annoyance from secretion of mucous in his throat, and is entirely free from pain. He asked Dr. Bliss this afternoon what he thought of his condition. The doctor replied that if he could keep down nourishment enough he would get through all right. The president then inquired how long it would be if he should make favorable progress, before he could take a trip on the steamer or go to Mentor. The doctor could not, however, give him a definite reply. None of the president's symptoms are worse this afternoon, and some of them are better. His condition continues critical, but his attendants think there is a little more reason for encouragement.

6:30 P. M.—The president has contrived to take liquid nourishment in small quantities at stated intervals during the entire day, and has had no return of nausea or vomiting. The nutrient enemata are also retained. The wound is looking well, and the work of repair is going on. The pus discharged is healthy. At present his pulse is 110, temperature 99, respiration 19.

10:30 P. M.—The president this morning began the day in a condition which was regarded as slightly better. He had passed a quieter and more comfortable night than anticipated. There has been no recurrence of vomiting which excited so much alarm yesterday afternoon. His pulse, before he awoke at 6 o'clock A. M., was down to 98. This auspicious opening of the day seemed to justify or at least make more reasonable the belief of a few sanguine persons that the case was about to take a favorable turn, and when the morning bulletin appeared and it became known that the patient had begun to swallow food again without vomiting or nausea, faint hope took the place of profound despondency, which prevailed everywhere throughout the city last night. At 7 A. M., the surgeons gave the patient an enema consisting of 4 ounces of beef extract with the yolk of an egg, and shortly afterward, in compliance with his request, he was given a small quantity of koumiss which he swallowed and retained without discomfort. Later in the morning as there was no signs of gastric disturbance the patient was given more koumiss and milk porridge, and by noon he had taken and retained 10 or 12 ounces. The exciting cause of vomiting, viz, mucus in the throat seemed to be absent. The secretions from the inflamed parotid gland were very scanty and gave the patient no annoyance and the gland itself caused little, if any, pain. He therefore rested more quietly than usual throughout the day, swallowing liquid nourishment at regular intervals without nausea or discomfort. Between 12 and 1 o'clock another enema was given, consisting of five ounces of beef extract and the yolk of an egg, and shortly after this the patient went to sleep. With the exception of the usual slight rise of pulse and temperature his condition remained substantially unchanged throughout the day.

Most Discouraging.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—The following is from a Washington special: It is difficult to obtain any news from the sick room beyond that which is given in official bulletins, but it is stated upon authority which in every stage of the case has hitherto been unerring, that last night and the night before the president was delirious, and that during a portion of yesterday or the day before his mind in the daytime was somewhat clouded. Upon awakening it takes him some minutes to pick up the threads of consciousness, and before going to sleep his mind wanders. These are bad symptoms. The physicians make no progress in attempts to scatter the swollen gland about the neck, and privately admit that it is a serious difficulty. Some army and navy surgeons who were originally in the case, and who have been visited, say that last evening's bulletin has given them more apprehension than any that has preceded it. They greatly fear that the vomiting will not be sufficiently relieved to give the president the necessary strength to recover, particularly in view of the fact that the system will now be subjected to new demands by a wound more than a foot in length. Secretary Lincoln who was at the White House last evening before the bulletin was issued said that he felt very much discouraged. He had seen the physicians about noon, but was unable to obtain from them any assurance upon which he could base [illegible]

Very Gloomy.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A telegram from Washington says that as soon as the president awoke this morning a hot poultice of flax seed was applied to the neck. There is now great desire to prevent suppuration of the parotid gland. The effect of an abscess upon the brain is much dreaded. During the night there was a slight aberration of mind apparent in his muttering while asleep. Peptonized beef in very small quantities was administered through the mouth at 3 A. M. and was retained. The president's mind, when he awoke [illegible]

A Parallel Case.

[illegible] thinks that septicæmia has been the retarding influence ever since the first incision, July 24.

Wants to go to the Seaside.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Garfield said that while the president was able to articulate distinctly he was prevented from speaking as freely as he was inclined to do by troubles in his throat. Several times he has expressed his anxiety to be able to go away from the White House, as he fears malaria, and he seems to have a preference for a sea voyage. Several times to-day he has referred to it, and Mrs. Garfield thinks he favors the idea of going to Long Branch. If Mrs. Garfield entertains any doubts of her husband's recovery she conceals them wonderfully, for there was not the slightest appearance of extreme anxiety in her manner this evening. She speaks hopefully of the president being able to stand the fatigue of removal from the White House at no distant day.

Significant Matters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Mrs. Garfield did not leave the White House Sunday for her daily ride, and the children remained in doors. Capt. Henry, who returned from Cairo only a few days ago, is said to have gone back, and an unconfirmed rumor has it that he has gone to bring on the president's mother and two young children. Should that rumor prove true it will reveal unmistakably the feeling of those who have access to the sick room.

A Small matter of Honesty and Courtesy.

A Times Washington special says: Postmaster General James in a letter to the chief of the Dominion postal service states that no Canadian mail bags have been used in the domestic service of the United States, and that no special international pouch will be required if bags of each country are promptly returned empty to exchange offices. That this is not done on the Canadian side is shown by the recent dispatch of closed mails from Montreal to Winnepeg in United States sacks.

Dr. Bliss' Views.

In conversation with a reporter of the associated press late this afternoon, Bliss, who seemed rather more than ordinarily cheerful and confident, said that the general condition of the president has not changed very much since yesterday, but that what change there had been was in the direction of improvement. It is, he said, a change in precisely those symptoms which are regarded with the most anxiety and which have a more direct bearing upon the nature of the case, viz, symptoms dependant upon the condition of the stomach. One great question now, he said, is the question of nourishment. If the president's stomach will take and assimilate food enough to meet the strain upon his system caused by fever and constant secretion of pus to restrain his strength until other unfavorable complications disappear, and to enable nature to carry on the process of repair which has begun in the wound, I think there is every possibility of complete recovery. The swelling of the parotid gland or of the slight septic taint of the blood in which that swelling had its origin are of secondary importance when compared with the consequence of failure of the stomach to assimilate food. Exhaustion is the thing most to be feared. The patient's stomach takes food to-day very well, and we hope to have no further trouble with it. The stomach itself was not so much in fault yesterday. Vomiting was caused by the patient's strenuous efforts to get rid of tenacious mucous in his throat.

An Exciting day on 'Change at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22—This was another great day on 'change. The fluctuations were rapid and excitement was the ruling state of the market. The more conservative dealers, who have been drawing out of the various deals contented with their profits or fearing to risk further losses, say that there is no end to the orders that come in from outsiders. Everybody seems to be buying, and yet the market broke again heavily today, opening at low down figures and closing up pretty strong. This was true of both produce and provisions. The difference between the highest price for September on Saturday and the lowest price to-day was as follows: Wheat 4⅞, corn 6⅞, oats 4½, pork 20 and lard 25 cents. The afternoon call showed great activity but no great change in prices, but after the call the curbstone brokers started a senseless report which found many gulls who credited it, that the president was dead, and they forthwith began to sell out right and left, causing a decline of 2 cents. Of course this was not legitimate trading and does not go on the record, but it indicates how sensitive is the market and how sympathetic with the news from Washington. The clique are believed by some to be out of the deal and by others to be milking the markets.

A Good Deal of Impudence.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22.—The Italian fruit dealers of New Orleans have put in operation a conspiracy to control that branch of business. The importers demand protection from the federal and municipal authorities, and four Italians were arrested for threatening bodily harm to any one purchasing fruit from the cargo of the steamer E. B. Ward, Jr. It appears that when the vessel arrived from Central America the retail dealers demanded an immediate opportunity to purchase part of her load, but the captain wanted to ship four cars to the west at once. He was not permitted to do so, and when the fruit was placed on the wharf, those who had intended to purchase were subjected to intimidation from the Italians for two days, the bananas spoiling in the mean time.

Death of Oliver D. Filley.

OTTUMWA, Aug. 22.—Another report that the president was dead was industriously circulated this afternoon, and wheat declined a full cent on curbstone in consequence thereof. It is believed that this rumor was spread over the northwest, and possibly has reached San Francisco. There was intense excitement for a time, of course. The rumor was wholly a base slander, as reports from Washington show.

THE FRENCH ELECTIONS.

The Bonapartists Completely Routed by the Republicans.

PARIS, Aug. 21.—A semi-official note is published which repeats the assertion that France had no option but to break off negotiations for a new commercial treaty with England and says that it is to be hoped therefore that the opinion of the English public and English statesmen will soon admit the necessity to which France had to yield. Belief that the new chamber of deputies will be more favorable to free trade is doubtless erroneous. The only new member elected in Paris is Heredia, irreconcilable, who was returned from the first division of the 17th arrondissement. Second ballots will be necessary between Goodelle, Bonapartist, and Passan, Orleanist, in the 8th arrondissement, and between Camille Farcy and Raue (republican union) in the 2d division of the 9th arrondissement.

At elections to-day for members of the chambers of deputies the polling here was perfectly orderly. Eagerness to vote was general and especially a large number of votes having been polled at Belleville.

The result of the voting in Belleville is regarded throughout Paris as a signal defeat for Gambetta. In the first division of Belleville out of 8204 votes cast, Gambetta obtained 4519 and La Croix 3500. In the second division Gambetta received 4905 out of 10,040 votes, and Tony Revillon 4516. Gambetta's absolute majority required for election was one vote. Up to the present time 53 results are known, of which 46 are republican, 1 conservative and 6 second ballots are necessary. The candidates re-elected in Paris are Spuller, republican union; Anatole De La Forde Gasse, extreme left; Floquet, extreme left; Lockroy, extreme left; Barodet, ex-left, Brisson, vice president last chamber of deputies, republican union; Allain Forge, republican union; Tirard, minister of commerce and agriculture, republican left; Louis Blanc, extreme left; Farcy, republican union.

General Results.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—The general result of the elections at Paris shows the return of 1 moderate candidate, 13 advanced republicans and 9 irreconcilables. Four second ballots will be necessary. Avowed socialist and revolutionary candidates generally received only a handful of votes. They are suspected in many cases of being started only for the purpose of causing divisions. The general result up to the present time shows the return of 259 republicans and 39 oppositionists. The former gained 45 seats, of which the moderate republicans secured 31 republican union 9, extreme left 3, and intransigeants 2. Forty-six second ballots will be necessary. The great feature of the elections was the defeat of the Bonapartists.

Keller, the noted clerical, was defeated in the department of Haut-Rhein. Clemenceau was successful in Arles as well as in Montmartre. Leon Renault, republican candidate at Bordeaux was defeated.

Effects of the French Election.

BERLIN, Aug. 22.—The result of the French elections may influence negotiations for an alliance between Italy, Austria and Germany. Count Van Hatzfeldt has started for Constantinople to present his letters of recall as German ambassador. Baron Von Radowitz will be appointed as his successor.

Sudden Death.

BRADFORD, Pa., Aug. 22. James Slocum, aged 49, a prominent railroad contractor, both in New York state and California, died very suddenly in his room in a hotel here this evening. It is supposed he took an overdose of morphia. He leaves a wife and four children.

A Disastrous Fight.

EL PASO, Aug. 22. Reliable intelligence was received today of the fight between Lieutenant Schaffer of the Fort Bliss garrison and Indians near the valley, a hundred miles northwest of El Paso, in which Lieutenant Smith, four soldiers and George Daly, a celebrated mining expert and owner of extensive mines in Colorado, were killed. Lieutenant Schaffer was wounded. The negro soldiers fled when the Indians made an attack, hence the casualties.

Fire at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22. Fire on Gravier street destroyed the establishments of Pattison & Bertrand, wholesale liquor dealers, Sam Levy, cigar dealer, and damaged the stores of Wm. Stern, wholesale liquor dealer, Myer Heyneman, boots and shoes, H. Lawrence & Co. and T. T. White & Co., wholesale grocers. Total loss estimated at $75,000, mostly covered by insurance.

OREGON ANNUAL M. E. CONFERENCE.

No Regular Business Session on Sunday—Masterly Sermon Preached by Bishop Harris—Sabbath School Anniversary and Missionary Sessions.

Fourth Day's Proceedings.

[illegible]

The services throughout the day were highly appreciated by the people.

Fifth Day's Proceedings.

The services of the day was opened by religious services conducted by L. L. Rogers.

The journal of Saturday was read, corrected and approved.

The several conference committees were appointed.

N. A. Starr and J. S. McCain were granted superannuary relation.

The first dollar towards the erection of a monument to the memory of the late Bishop Haven was contributed by Mrs. Matilda Taft.

S. H. Todd was transferred to this conference.

Wm. Roberts offered the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS—In prosecuting the great work of the Methodist itinerant ministry it is often necessary to transfer men from one conference to another, and,

WHEREAS—It is utterly impossible to maintain the [illegible] of our ministry if such transferred persons are encouraged to enter a conference, accept one or two year appointments, and then go prospecting for other good places, leaving the less favored men to do the hard, rough, outside work; therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, that we very cordially welcome such transferred brethren, provided, they come to us in good, fair health and come to stay, taking our appointments, for better and for worse, and provided further, that they are in good standing in the conference from whence they come, not having recently been the subjects of judicial investigation.

The bishop heartily recommended the paper, which was unanimously adopted by the conference.

D. G. LaSelwood was transferred to this conference.

Wm. S. Harrington was transferred from the Rock river conference to this conference.

J. H. Acton was granted a supernumerary relation.

The committee in the case of Wm. Butts made its report. With the report was a letter from Bro. Butts asking to sever his relation from the conference on account of his not being in harmony with the doctrines of Methodism. The committee asked the conference to grant him a such withdrawal, it being understood and agreed that the character of Bro. Butts is above suspicion. The bishop commended Mr. Butts for such manly course. For it is better when a minister finds himself out of harmony with his brethren and church belief, to withdraw from such church and ministry.

The committee on Bible cause submitted their report, which was adopted, and P. C. Hetzler, the district agent of the American Bible society, addressed the conference in the interests of that work. Bishop Harris also addressed the conference commending the work of that society.

A. C. Fairchild suggested that the agent publish at the beginning of the year a plan of his work, so that the ministers can make arrangements accordingly. Agreed to. The Bible money was authorized to be paid to P. C. Hetzler, district agent.

The committee on Indian affairs made their report, which was recommitted.

A committee on periodicals reported. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the Pacific Christian Advocate and the editorial management, recommending the Methodist Quarterly Review and all other periodicals, and asking the enforcement of the [illegible] usage regarding the payment of debts due the book concern.

Board of stewards reported the collection of $275 during the year. This fund was for the relief of superannuated and worn out preachers, and their widows and orphans. Your reporter would like to recommend this cause to the people of the church and hopes that next year a much greater sum will be reported.

Sabbath-school committee made report. The number of schools under the church 107, increase 11, officers and teachers, 751, increase, 135, scholars of all ages 5424, increase, 771. The report was adopted.

The committee on the sanctity of the Sabbath made their report. The committee greatly deplored the general desecration of the Sabbath. In some instances even those claiming to be christians, holding pews in our churches and helping to support our ministry, were guilty as well as the wicked. Recommend a more vigorous enforcement of rule of Sabbath. Report adopted.

Committee on temperance reported, strongly recommending the work. There was much to encourage in the prospects for the future. Adopted.

Committee on tracts reported. Report adopted.

The board of church extension reported showing a large increase of collections for that interest during last year. Adopted.

The morning's session was continued to hear the report on the Chinese question.

Ordered that the conference meet for a session this evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Committees on P. C. Advocate and on missions were ordered to be appointed.

Notices were read, appointments were made and after the doxology was sung and the benediction by J. M. Nickerson the conference adjourned to meet at 7:30 o'clock, at which time appointments for the conference year will be announced.

Evening Session.

The session was opened by devotional exercises conducted by Rev. W. D. Nichols, who read the 1st chapter of the gospel by St. John.

The journal of the morning session was read and approved.

Rev. D. L. Spaulding was granted a supernumerary relation.

The committee on education, through the chairman, N. Doan, submitted a report showing a healthy and prosperous condition of the various institutions of learning, directly under control of the conference, in the state, which report was adopted.

The committee on Indian affairs submitted a report which drew out quite a lengthy and animated discussion, which was indulged in by Revs. Dennison, Driver, Nichols, Doan and the bishop. Finally upon motion of L. L. Rogers, of Ashland, the report was laid upon the table.

The committee on the Episcopal fund submitted a report, which report was adopted.

The committee on the German work submitted a report, which was adopted.

The committee appointed by the conference last year on Alaska mission submitted a lengthy report, recommending the establishment of a mission in Alaska. The report was adopted and the secretary was instructed to furnish a copy of the report to the board of home missions.

The missionary committee submitted a report which was adopted.

The statistical committee submitted a report showing a healthy condition of the churches, which was adopted.

The committee on the P. C. Advocate reported, recommending L. J. Northrup, N. Doan and J. N. Dennison as publishing committee for the paper for the ensuing year. The report was adopted.

Rev. Sails moved that the conference heartily approve the able manner in which Rev. H. K. Hines has edited the Advocate the past year. Adopted.

The church extension committee submitted a report, which after amendment was adopted.

A motion was made to adjourn until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock, which was lost.

The following resolutions were offered by Rev. Nichols and adopted:

Resolved, That the conference extends hearty thanks to the people of East Portland for the manner in which they have entertained us.

2. To Bro. Stoops for his efforts in behalf of our comfort.

3. To Bishop Harris for his presence and wise counsel as our president.

4. To Bro. Wolf and his assistants for the efficient manner in which they have performed their labors as secretaries.

5. To the lines of travel for reduction of rates for the benefit of those who have attended this conference.

Resolved, That this conference assure the Rev. I. A. Banks of their heartfelt sympathy for the loss of his wife.

Rev. C. F. Lambert was allowed by vote to withdraw from the conference.

The minutes of the evening session was read by the secretary and was approved.

The following appointments were announced for the ensuing year:

[illegible]

Rev. J. M. [illegible] will engage in Bethel work in Astoria under the direction of Chaplain R. S. Stubbs.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

A Thrust at the Government.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that the government could hardly have come worse out of a debate than from that concerning the arrest of Michael Davitt. It is sincerely to be hoped that he will be released forthwith. It is difficult to speak with respect of the grounds which Sir Wm. Harcourt alleged for the re-arrest of Davitt. The nationalist press is very indignant at Sir Wm. Harcourt's speech.

The Land Bill Signed.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The queen has signed the land bill.

Land Leaguers to be let go.

Although there will be no general amnesty of suspected persons in Ireland it is stated that Sheehy, Mr Kettle, and about sixty other prisoners arrested shortly after the coercion act will be liberated before parliament rises.

Disturbances Feared in Limerick.

DUBLIN, Aug. 22.—The military authorities have been ordered to prepare flying detachments to proceed to different parts of Limerick county at a moments notice as disturbances are anticipated.

More Money for America.

LONDON, Aug. 22. It is reported that £300,000 will be taken from banks for shipment to the United States.

Afghanistan.

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The viceroy of India telegraphs that news has been received from Candahar that strong reinforcements are on the road from Cabul to join the ameer's troops at Khelat.

The Spanish Elections.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—The Daily News has the following from Madrid: The elections have resulted in a great success for the liberals whose candidates are returned in two-thirds of the polls already known. A great fraud was detected a few hours before polling began. Two hundred and fifty persons were bribed to vote successively under false names in every district in Madrid to secure the return of the conservative candidates. The prefect obtained full confessions.

Election in Portugal.

LISBON, Aug. 21.—At the election for members of the chamber of deputies to-day, of 147 seats only about 20 were obtained by various shades of the opposition.

Henry M. Stanley Dangerously Sick.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Private advices received in this city state that the explorer, Stanley, is lying dangerously ill half way between Stanley pool and the mouth of the Congo. He has so little faith in his own recovery that he has made his will.

A Murderous Threat.

GENEVA, Aug. 22.—Socialists have addressed a threatening letter to the federal tribunal in regard to their appeal from the decision of the grand council of Zurich prohibiting a social congress there in September. The letter warns the judges of the tribunal that they will be the first to be blown up and states that the socialists have enough dynamite to blow up half of Switzerland.

The Tunisian Army.

TUNIS, Aug. 22.—The departure of the bey's troops was fixed for yesterday. They number 2000, mostly irregulars. The heir apparent is in command. The forces which will march on Kairwan will be supported by a column of French troops.

Fight with Brigands.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 22.—Telegrams received here from consuls at Janina, state that a British member of the Dalmatian commission attacked by brigands near the frontier, and after a sharp encounter, in which the commander of the Turkish escort was killed, the brigands were driven off.

Free Press in Germany.

BERLIN, Aug. 20.—The editor of the Germany Nachrichten has been acquitted of a charge of asserting that Bismarck favored the anti-Jewish agitation on the ground that if the accused believed that the government indirectly promoted anti-Jewish excesses he had a perfect right to express an opinion to that effect.

FORMATION OF MOUNDS.

SPOKANE CO., W. T. Aug 17, 1881.

To the Editor of The Oregonian:

Having read with much interest an article written by a correspondent in the OREGONIAN giving a description of the Tenino Mounds near Puget Sound, I fully agree with the editor that it is ingeniously written and that the suggestions are worthy of consideration. His theory that the mounds are the work of human agency, in prehistoric times, for the purpose of depositing their dead, is full of romance, and produces in our minds, in spite of our judgment to the contrary, a feeling something akin to superstitious veneration for these mounds. It therefore seems almost a pity to spoil such a pretty story by setting up an opposition theory. But if the writer thereof will visit Eastern Washington, he will find several small tracts of country, dotted over with just such mounds, he will find others in process of formation at this time, but not by the work of man.

He will find that a peculiar current of wind, on reaching a certain district of country moves with such a whirl that it sweeps up and carries the loose and light particles of earth to a common center. If there be any blades or tufts of grass leading to it concentrates and keeps accumulating. This process is slower or rapid; according to the looseness or compactness of the soil, and the velocity of the wind. But it steadily goes on, and like the Tenino mounds the top of these elevations is composed of the light dust that is wafted by the whirling wind, from among the stones to its lodgment among the blades and roots of vegetation. Only disturb the earth on a windy day, on any side of these mounds and it is instantly lifted up and deposited on the top or sides of them.

In some of these districts this peculiar whirling wind, has ceased and found new channels. Probably the growth or destruction of timber has done this for we generally find these mounds not long distances from timber. There is one exception however in the district lying about seven miles north of Washtucna lake in Whitman county, W. T. This country is without timber, the top soil is a rich loam, the subsoil appears to be sand. By the force and peculiar direction of the wind the sand is lifted to a considerable height. A furrow is ploughed several hundred yards wide, 100 to 120 feet deep and several miles in length, the sand and dust on ascending some distance, say from 20 to 30 feet high are met by a counter current, the heavier particles are dropped on a ridge, and the light dust and sand carried beyond, forming ridges parallel with this deep furrow.

A WRECK SUPPOSED TO BE THE VIGILANT DISCOVERED.

By Indians near Cape Wankarem—Progress of the Corwin and what her Officers are Doing, Etc., Etc.

[illegible] discovered an island not down on the charts, near Cape Serdze.

The Indians up the Youkon are getting worse all the time, and Captain Hooper refers to the fact of his finding it extremely hard work this summer, inasmuch as he has no pilot, which makes it necessary for his remaining on deck 24 hours at times when he is near land or ice.

A Further Report.

Capt. Hooper of the steamer Corwin in his official report to Secretary Windom, announces his arrival at St. Michaels, July 4th, from the Arctic ocean, where I had been to pick up a land party under command of 1st Lieut. Herring, which I mentioned in my last report as having sent along the coast of Siberia to investigate the rumored discovery of a wreck last fall by some natives to the northward of cape Zerdze, and to make inquiries of the natives about the Jeannette. We reached Tapkan settlement, the place appointed to meet our party on the 28th of June and found them waiting for us. They had been as far north as cape Wankarem, latitude 67.14 north, longitude 116.53 west. They found natives who discovered and boarded a wreck and brought away some of the articles found by them: one pair of silver-bowed spectacles in a tin case; a pair of marine glasses; two tableknives, one marked with the letter "V;" a whale iron marked "B K" and the name "Macy," probably that of the maker, in a circle about one-fourth of an inch in diameter and five dots, probably the number of the boat to which it belonged. A large number of other things, principally carpenters' tools and galley utensils were found in possession of the natives, but not having any marks by which they could be identified. The facts as taken by Lieut. Herrogg are as follows: A party of three Techuktches were sailing along the edge of the ice probably about November 8, when they discovered a dark-looking object which upon examination proved to be the hull of a vessel filled with water. The masts and boats were gone, and bulwarks stove. A pair of deer horns were attached to the end of a jibboom. In the cabin four corpses were found, three in berths and one on the floor, showing evidence of having been dead a long time. No books or papers were saved by the natives although they say that they saw some in the cabin but attached no value to them as they could make no use of them. The wind was blowing hard at the time from the northward, so that they did not remain on board long. On the following day they again went out to look for the wreck but it was not to be seen. The wind had changed to the southwest during the night and started the drift ice with which the ship was surrounded to the northeasterly direction, of course taking the wreck along with it. They say that they kept a good lookout afterwards but saw nothing more of it. There is a report among the whalers that the Vigilant had a pair of deer horns on her jibboom, and if this be so it would indicate that it was the wreck of that vessel. It is probable that the marks on the whale iron will be identified and decide the matter. I shall forward these articles by the St. Paul, to San Francisco to be left at the Merchants' Exchange for inspection by those interested. It seems certain that we have learned the fate of one of the missing whalers and a part of her crew as stated.

Yorktown.

[Harper's Magazine for August.]

The scene of the surrender has long been a much-neglected spot. Yorktown is not reached by railway, and is off the line of progress. Some day it may revive its old-time prosperity; at least it ought to become more accessible as a point of future pilgrimage. Before the Revolution the town was quite an emporium, the only port from which the Virginia planters shipped their tobacco to England. Baltimore and Norfolk gradually reduced it by competition. Some two centuries or more ago we first hear of it as one of the few outposts or forts in the colony. In 1725 it was the center of a thriving county—an Episcopal parish of sixty communicants, with a church. Williamsburg, the capital with its House of Burgesses and growing college, attracting farther the wisdom and fashion of the Dominion, was scarce a dozen miles away. Until Cornwallis stationed himself there, Yorktown had escaped the ravages of war on the Virginia coast, and after its surrender it still contained about seventy houses, not more than two or three having been wholly destroyed. Fifteen years later it had not extended its limits and we find its population, more than half of which was composed of negroes, numbering about eight hundred souls. The last war, it need hardly be said, left it in a depressed condition, almost beyond recovery, and to-day it contains not more than three hundred inhabitants, among whom are to be found but few descendants of the ancient proprietors. In fact, it seems to be the lot of Yorktown that the more it becomes a historical spot, the less it becomes anything else.

MISCELLANEOUS.

"Yes," said the miner, "I have a bonanza; my last is ten hours old and we number thirteen in all. My wife is a 'baby mine.'"

From 1850 to 1880, a period of thirty years, the United States gold coinage consisted of $920,000,000 in double eagles, $44,000,000 in eagles, $40,500,000 in half eagles, and $42,000,000 in pieces of smaller denominations.

"Mr. Boatman," said a timid woman to the ferryman who was rowing her across the river, "are people ever lost in this river?" "Oh, no, ma'am," he replied, "we always finds 'em again in a day or so."

General Hancock has received an invitation from Secretary Lincoln to command the troops at the Yorktown celebration, and promises to make that feature of the ceremonies very impressive.

The St. Paul Pioneer-Press suggests Jay Gould as the new commissioner of Indian affairs. It thinks that as the interior department earnestly desires the consolidation of the various tribes of Indians, Jay Gould is evidently the man for the place.

"George," said a school mistress to one of her unruly scholars, "why is it you behave so badly? When you first came to school you were obedient, submissive, and willing to learn; now you are just the contrary." "Well, to tell the truth, marm," said George, "I was not much acquainted then."

GROCERIES AND

[illegible]

The Daily Oregonian

[illegible] for the financial honor of the state, they at the same time have inserted in their platform a pledge that the taxes shall be kept down to a rate which will render it impossible to pay the interest. The state enforces a poll tax which was devised to place a limitation upon the exercise of the right of suffrage by the colored voters of the state, and there are other proscriptive laws framed for a like purpose which the Bourbons maintain, but which the Mahone party has pledged itself to abolish. For these reasons most of the republicans have resolved to accept the invitation to co-operate with Mahone. On their side the "straight" democrats claim that the massing of the colored vote for the Mahone candidates will draw the color line sharply between the two tickets. They say that the capture of the republican convention by Mahone will be worth thousands of votes to them, as it will array nearly every white man in the state against the coalition ticket. But this is probably mere brag. It is pretty certain that the democrats will have no easy-going campaign. Last fall, in the presidential election, the readjusters polled for their separate electoral ticket (which however was for Hancock the same as the regular ticket) 31,527 votes, while the "regulars" threw 96,449 votes and the republicans 83,639. These figures, considered in relation to coalition, would indicate that the democratic party of Virginia, if it is to gain future victories, will be compelled to fight for them with a desperate energy. Every district and town will be closely canvassed by both parties, and the contest will be a sharper one than has been witnessed in Virginia since Goggin contested for the governorship with Henry A. Wise in "Know Nothing" times. Candid men on both sides say that the debt question is not the vital issue. On their part the democrats say that the question simply is whether education and property or ignorance and sans-culottism shall rule the state; while the republicans on their side say that the main issue is whether there shall be enjoyment of the rights of suffrage and citizenship as against Bourbon proscription, or not. Making allowance for the statement of this question from the opposite stand points, it will be seen that the two parties are in substantial agreement as to what the main issue is.

PUBLIC DEBTS.

One of the latest bulletins from the census office presents a statement of the national, state and local indebtedness of the United States. As to local indebtedness the statistics probably are not absolutely accurate; but as they have been collated with great care and labor, they may be regarded as an approximation to the actual aggregate. The statistician reports that the net debt of the 311 cities of the United States having a population of more than 7500 each is $593,000,000. He estimates the county, village, township and school district debts at $225,000,000, while the aggregate indebtedness of the several states and territories is $250,700,000. Taking the sum of these amounts and putting it beside the national debt, as reported August 1st, we have the following:

State and local debts	$1,069,000,000
The national debt	1,330,520,788

This makes an aggregate of $2,399,520,788. A few years ago the national debt alone exceeded this sum. Many local debts are still increasing, though their aggregate for the whole country is not. Even the city of New York, mismanaged as it is, and the prey of unscrupulous politicians as it has been for many years and is likely always to be, has decreased its debt during the past year by $2,000,000. It still owes more than $100,000,000. Other reports from the census office and various other sources show that while the indebtedness of the country is being on the whole rapidly decreased, the habit of private thrift is growing among the people. Latest statistics of the savings institutions of the country show that the deposits now held are equal to about $30 for every one of our more than 50,000,000 inhabitants. That is, the people have about $1,500,000,000 deposited in savings banks. The payment of debts and the increase of savings should be encouraged throughout the nation, and to this end it would be well if habits of thrift were as carefully taught to children in this country as they are to children in the schools and in the homes of France.

SOUND DOCTRINE.

Brazil has adopted the "protective" policy in relation to some classes of manufactured goods. The Rio News, a paper published in the English language at Rio de Janeiro, not only protests against it, but exposes its fallacy in strong terms. There is a whole volume of economical science in what follows: "If left to themselves the majority of industries will find their way to the localities where they can turn out the best results, but if they are located and managed on the arbitrary basis of the protective system then they must inevitably result in loss and become burdens upon the people who 'encourage' them. An industry which can exist only through the constant and continued support of statutes and artificially increased prices upon its products, is an evil. This dependence upon laws against competition and upon various other favors of government cannot fail to weaken an industry, even where it is well located, and it is for this reason that the establishment and support of these exotic enterprises through protective measures should not be encouraged. It is no advantage to the people of Canada to have a sugar refinery when they are obliged to pay 25 per cent. more for their sugar, and for the same reason it is no advantage to the people of Brazil to have a candle factory in the empire and pay much more for their candles in order to support it. The policy of paying two prices for an article in order to gratify some patriotic sentiment, is a luxury among nations which only the most wealthy and prosperous can afford. Free trade, pure and simple, may not be practicable, but free trade, with tariffs for revenue purposes alone, is a policy which all nations can safely adopt."

The agitation for civil service reform is continued by the press of the country with a prominence [illegible]

[illegible] transaction of public business, great men will be shut out from public life, public opinion will be denied fair play upon the government, legislators will not find time to attend to their legitimate duties, and, above all, the demon of party rancor, raising the bosses high above the country, will be preserved in a perpetual army of office-seekers, embracing a large part of the adult male population of the country.

Mr. Sitting Bull, now a guest of the government of the United States, expresses himself as tolerably well satisfied with the treatment he is receiving, but complains that when his daughter recently visited him at camp the soldiers failed to spread a blanket for her to walk on. Whether the rigid rule of etiquette is excessively ceremonious or whether the affectionate father desires to have the famous interview between Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh re-enacted, does not appear; but it is tolerably clear that in either case the government owes him an apology, delivered in a diplomatic manner, and the apology should be accompanied with a fresh new, clean blanket for the young squaw, to set off the elegance of her beaded moccasins and the chevrons of vermilion adorning her cheeks and parting at the nose bridge.

It is estimated that 225,000 pounds of opium are annually imported into this country, of which 150,000 pounds are used illegitimately; that is to say that quantity is consumed by opium smokers and eaters, and morphine injectors. The vice is about equally divided between the male and female victims, and once contracted is seldom cured. Unlike drunkenness, it can be carried on for years in secret and unsuspected; but it breaks down the system none the less surely than alcoholic intoxicants. The greater part of the opium consumed in the United States is controlled by a New York combination.

Journals of Dakota are discussing a proposition to hold a delegate convention at Fargo at an early day, at which all parts of the territory shall be represented, to take definite action looking to state organization. All parts of Dakota are now rapidly filling up and developing, and the question of statehood will soon have to be met and decided. Undoubtedly Dakota will be the next state.

If we are to believe the Paris correspondent of the London Economist, the reports of rich harvests in France have not only been exaggerated but are untrue. This correspondent claims that the yield will be less than last year, which was below the average, and that the exportation of breadstuffs into France must be as large as ordinary. France expects to absorb the surplus of Russia.

Great success is predicted for the international cotton exposition to begin at Atlanta, (Ga.) October 5. More than 1400 entries have already been made. The space has been doubled, and machinery is coming in both from our northern states and Europe.

Henry Bingham, a member of the New Hampshire legislature, said in that body the other day, that it was a notorious fact that one-third of the votes of that state had become mercenary and venal; and nobody denied the statement.

In consequence of low railroad fares the number of people visiting New York is so great that all the hotels are crowded constantly to their utmost capacity.

TWO OR MORE SURGEONS

Of the Pacific Surgical Institute, 305 Kearney street, San Francisco, will be at the St. Charles Hotel, Portland, August 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28th, fully prepared to treat all cases of Spinal Disease, Knee and Hip Disease, Club Foot, Crooked Limbs, Paralysis, and all Chronic and Surgical Diseases. As this Institution is unequaled in facilities for the treatment of these affections, all who are interested should not fail to see these surgeons.

CITY.

[illegible]

... leave at once for Victoria.

VICIOUS COW.—At about 6 o'clock last evening the child of Mr. Olds, of the firm of Olds & ..., was attacked by a vicious cow, the property of Mr. Stansberry, while playing at the corner of ... and Second streets. It was impaled on the horns of the vicious brute and tossed, coming down with a tremendous thump, which resulted in several painful bruises. This section of the city is a pasture ground by people who own cows, and yesterday's disaster is not the first that has occurred. We hope a word to the poundkeeper will be sufficient.

AMPUTATED.—Dr. Strong, assisted by Drs. H. C. Wilson and W. H. Saylor, amputated the right arm of a man named Hewett, at Good Samaritan hospital yesterday morning. Some time since Hewett ran a large splinter in the thumb of his right hand. The splinter was removed but the wound refused to heal, notwithstanding the treatment. Gangrene finally set in, rendering the amputation of the limb necessary in order to save life. The arm was taken off between the shoulder and elbow. Hewett was doing well at last accounts.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE.—Thomas Kearney, executor of the estate of P. Cooney, deceased, sold some desirable real estate Saturday afternoon at the court house door. Lots one and two, in block 73, ...'s addition, East Portland, were purchased by ... Cabain for the sum of $150. Lots seven and eight, same block, same addition, were purchased by Mrs. Barber for $775. The property purchased by Mrs. Barber includes a neat cottage, out ..., well, etc. Considering the location of this property, the price is regarded as large.

HEAVY FALL.—A man named F. L. Hagle, practicing on a trapeze last night at the Gold ... saloon, made a false move and was precipitated to the floor with great violence. He fell a distance of about 14 feet, and struck on his shoulder and head. As a result, his collar bone was fractured and he was rendered unconscious by the fall. Hagle was conveyed to the office of Dr. W. H. Saylor, who set the fractured parts and brought the man to consciousness. Hagle will probably carry his arm in a sling for some time.

LAID TO REST.—Miss Dora Crifts was buried from the Baptist church in East Portland, on Sunday afternoon, the funeral sermon being preached by Rev. ... Gray, from the text "And all wept and bewailed her, but He said, weep not, she sleepeth." Many children who had known the kindness of the deceased young lady as a friend and teacher, were present and testified their deep grief at her death by bitter tears, as they followed her to the resting place in the silent city of the dead.

...—Yesterday the funeral of James Reed, a member of Protection Engine Co., took place from the company's house, to which the body was conveyed from St. Vincent's hospital where he died. The funeral procession embraced a large number of friends of the deceased, preceded by a band discoursing solemn music. Mr. Reed was very popular with his fellow firemen, who were out in large numbers to pay the last tribute to his memory.

... Edward D. Hill, ... for the ... Mr. Hill will enter the ... of his father, Mr. Thomas Hill, who has returned from the East, and complete ... For the next few months he will devote his attention to portrait painting, under the instruction of his father.

... FOR ACQUITTAL.—The statement made in yesterday's OREGONIAN as to how the jury stood in the case of State of Oregon vs. J. G. Robeson, was incorrect. It was stated that the jury stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal. A dispatch from ... yesterday says there were seven jurors for acquittal and five for conviction. The case has been continued for the term.

SUMMONING THE JURY.—Sheriff Buchtel has been engaged for the past few days in summoning jurors for the state circuit court, whose names were drawn last week. All the jurors have been served with the necessary papers except three or four who reside in Powell's valley. These persons will be duly notified that they have been drawn in a few days.

... SHUBRICK.—The lighthouse tender Shubrick has for the past two weeks been lying near the foot of ... street undergoing a general overhauling. Some repairs have been made to her machinery and the ... work painted. She looks now as neat as a pin. Yesterday the Shubrick came up to the foot of Washington, where she is now moored.

THE UMATILLA.—The Oregon Improvement Company's new steamer Umatilla, which sailed from New York for Portland on the 31st of July, arrived at Rio Janeiro on the 19th of August. She sailed from there for this port on the 20th. The passage from New York to Rio is considered a quick one.

... BIRDS.—North Pacific Lodge I. O. B. B., had an excursion and picnic at Vancouver last Sunday, which resulted in a gratifying success. Socially it was all that could be desired by those who attended, while financially the lodge has cause for being well pleased, with the whole affair.

MOORISH COIN.—Mr. Isaac Blum, of this city, has in his possession an ancient Moorish coin which was sent to him by a friend in Tangier, Morocco. The coin is silver and bears the date 1241. It is perfectly square in shape, and the handling has worn the piece very thin.

EXPRESS OFFICES.—Col. Dudley Evans manager of Wells, Fargo & Co's office in this city, has closed the express office at St. Jo, in Yamhill county, and opened an office at Lafayette instead. New offices have also been established at Sprague, W. T., and at ..., W. T.

... HULK.—The old steamer Idaho is lying up on the bank at the east side some distance above the ... The upper works is propped securely up and a large force of men is engaged in building a new hull for the steamer.

DR. BATES' FUNERAL.

[illegible] ... the remains of ... the fraternity of this city and visiting brethren were ... The ... of the church was tastefully ... and the casket was literally covered with choice floral offerings. Mr. Sellwood's address was a masterly effort and his tribute to the memory of the deceased was fittingly eloquent. The cortege which followed the remains to their last resting place in the Odd Fellows' cemetery, was the largest that has been seen in Salem for years. At the conclusion of the religious exercises at the grave the Masonic fraternity performed their beautiful burial service, R. P. Earhart, past grand master, officiating, and all that remained mortal of a good man was laid to rest beneath the sod. Peace to his ashes.

BRIEF NOTES.

Cool and delightful yesterday.

Thus far August beats September.

The Chinese Babel is in full blast.

The "State" will sail for Portland to-morrow morning.

A large gang of Chinamen came up last evening from the fisheries.

The new steamer Mississippi will soon commence to discharge cargo.

The new police officers have all donned stars, and are doing valiant service.

The weather is so cool here that it is scarcely necessary to go down to the coast.

The next grand jury of this county will not be idle. There are already a number of cases to investigate.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Gilman & Co. will hold an important sale this morning. Full particulars found elsewhere.

Henry Doyle & Co., at No. 511 Market street, San Francisco, is sole agent for everything in the line of flax thread, twines, spool cotton, needles, hooks, etc.

Why will persons who are ruptured continue to suffer? Why don't they go at once to H. W. Hinkle's, No. 83 Morrison street, and purchase one of his elastic pad trusses. They will afford relief at once.

The Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of California is out in a very important advertisement this morning. Mr. A. McKitrick is manager for Oregon, and Washington and Idaho territories. Office at No. 102 First street.

In every change of Litt's advertisement are some important facts. At the expense of hard work for three years he has succeeded in gaining the confidence of a majority of the ladies in this city, as well as 1000 miles away. Litt remarked to one of our staff that he will not take a day of recreation until he will note through our columns the unimpaired desire in paying every Saturday night 150 hands.

AMUSEMENTS.

JUBILEE SINGERS.—The Kentucky Jubilee Singers—numbering 14—repeated their entertainment at New Market theater to another fair house last evening. Miss Webb met with a warm reception and repeated the first Bar Scotch ballad sung by her Saturday evening, and "Way down upon the Swanee river," with good effect. The latter song was received with much applause and won two encores. Mr. Johnny Coelin's Chinese impersonation was humorous. The other members of the company acquitted themselves very well. The entertainment given by the Kentucky Jubilee Singers can with truth be characterized as enjoyable throughout. They give an entertainment in East Portland to-night, leaving for Vancouver, The Dalles and Walla Walla to-morrow morning.

RESERVED SEATS.—The box sheet will be opened for sale of seats for the "Sheridan" season at D. W. Prentice & Co.'s at 10 o'clock this morning. The "take" for this engagement will probably be as large as ever known. There was a constant call for tickets yesterday but none were sold. Those wishing to secure reserved seats would do well to get them this morning.

THE LECTURES.—Dr. Truesdell delivered his fifth lecture to gentlemen at Masonic Hall last evening, on the origin of several diseases; and to-night will discuss the successful and rational treatment of these ailments of civilization.

PERSONAL.

T. O. Barker, of Anniversary Lodge No. 13, I. O. O. F., Salem, is in the city. He goes east to attend the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the order to which he belongs, at Cincinnati, Ohio.

Rev. P. S. Knight, pastor of the First Congregational church at Salem, is in the city. Mr. Knight has been spending his summer vacation on the sound. He will visit Hood river for a few weeks before returning home.

BARGAIN ROOM FOR CLOTHING.

We can lose profits, but we mustn't lose sales. We have divided our clothing into two parts. One part consists of that which must be sold quickly at whatever price will bring quickly in August. The other part consists of that which'll go any way. The former is marked down sharply in proportion to the urgency of each case. It consists largely of whole suits for men and boys of all sizes, and partly of odd garments. If we had no other clothing but this which is marked down we should have a large and, we may almost say, a full stock. As good clothing as we have in store is among it.
